Formed in 2002, our mission is to strive for the best quality placements. We focus on being small and doing things right. We recognize that we cannot offer homes to an unlimited number of greyhounds, but we can make a difference to the ones we touch. That is why our focus is on quality of placements, not quantity of placements.

GAGC Families and Friends,

I can't believe two months of 2022 is already past! Fifteen greyhounds have already been adopted this year. Losing our Crissy in January seems like a bad dream; I still look at her favorite bed thinking she should be there. The photo reflects the eye contact we had together! Unfortunately, several of us have recently gone through the same emotions after losing our furry family members. Anyway, let's all look forward to our May 21 event. We'll be celebrating 20 years of finding good homes for these greyt dogs. What an honor it has been to be part of such a greyt organization and the best families ever. Did you know we have around 500 families that make up GAGC? We have a good reputation with other groups and

Why dogs can't eat grapes

from Fetch by WebMD By Jeffrey Weishaupt Reviewed by Vanessa Farner, DVM on Jan. 4, 2022

Can dogs eat green grapes?

When dogs eat grapes of any kind and in any form, they are at risk of kidney (renal) failure. All types of grapes, whether cooked, seedless, peeled, dried, or fresh, are toxic to dogs, even in small amounts.

You should also avoid giving your dog any grape products such as raisins, juices, jelly, or jam.

What should you do if your dog eats grapes?

Since there isn't a well-established toxic dose of grapes for dogs, even very low amounts of it could be harmful to your pet. For example, an amount as low as 0.3 ounces of grapes per pound of body weight could also cause various symptoms of food toxicity.

If your dog consumes even tiny amounts of grapes, you should contact your veterinarian as soon as possible. They may be able to induce vomiting so your pet is in the clear instead of waiting for serious symptoms that can be fatal. Keep an eye out for serious symptoms such as increased blood pressure, nausea, and vomiting.

If you are unaware of the food product that your dog has consumed, it is wise to induce vomiting. However, if your dog has trouble breathing or exhibits any signs of distress, you should visit the vet as soon as possible.

Your dog will need prompt care since there isn't an antidote for grape poisoning. The veterinarian can induce vomiting just after ingestion. It will help remove the grapes from the dog's system. Your vet may also suggest giving your dog activated charcoal to help minimize the absorption of toxins in the intestines.

What are the symptoms of grape poisoning in dogs?

Acute symptoms develop within 24 hours of eating the fruit. Initial signs of grape toxicity include weakness and loss of appetite.

Severe signs of kidney failure are noticeable 24 to 48 hours after eating the fruit and include abdominal pain, nausea, and uremic breath (fishy odor). Here are some other signs of grape poisoning:

- Vomiting
- Anorexia
- Diarrhea
- Lethargy
- Increased thirst
- Excessive urination
- Anuria (no longer peeing)
- Dehydration
- Mouth ulcers
- Coma
- Seizures
- Oliguria (decreased urination)

If you suspect that your pet has eaten grapes or raisins and you observe any of these symptoms, you should take your dog to the hospital as soon as possible.

How do I prevent grape poisoning in my dog?

Grapes, raisins, currants, and sultanas should never be fed to dogs. You should also make sure your dog does not consume raisin bread, grape juice, or grape jam and jelly. Be aware that some protein bars contain raisins, making them a source of toxicity to your dog.

The best way to prevent grape toxicity in dogs is to keep these food items away from your pet. Make sure that family members and friends visiting your house are aware of the risk of giving grapes or grape products to dogs.

7 Things to know about pet insurance

by Sara Ventiera, AARP, January 19, 2022

Policies can help keep veterinary costs down, but may not cover everything

When Karen Hopper, 57, of Cooper City, Fla., looked into pet insurance for Rusty, her 5-year-old Staffordshire terrier, it didn't seem worth the cost.

Rusty had a knee injury from jumping off the bed when he was 2 years old, and the plan Hopper was offered through her job wouldn't cover preexisting conditions. Since she'd probably be dealing with the repercussions of Rusty's torn ACL for years, why pay a monthly fee when those expenses wouldn't be covered?

But less than a year later, Hopper had to charge a $4,000 surgery to remove a piece of rubber lodged in Rusty's abdomen on her credit card. "I was like, 'Maybe I should've gotten the insurance," she says.

Many dog and cat owners struggle with whether to buy pet insurance. Between coverage limitations, high deductibles, network constraints and wellness options, navigating the pet insurance industry can be as challenging as making sense of human health insurance. So, is it worth it?

While Hopper and others address health issues as they arise and hope for the best, some pet owners say the monthly premiums for pet insurance actually relieve stress.

A growing pet insurance industry Researching pet insurance policies and plans?

If you're thinking of investing in pet insurance, here are seven things to consider.

- Ask your breeder, rescue organization, or vet if they can recommend an insurer—or consider bundling your policy with your car, homeowners or another existing policy.
- Generally, the higher the deductible, the lower the premium. Your deductible decision should be based on how much money you could comfortably come up with in case of emergency.
- 3. If you're thinking of purchasing pet insurance, it's better to do so before your pet is diagnosed with something serious. Preexisting conditions

may not be covered.

- 4. Be mindful of lifetime or annual cap limits. "A cap can really get you in trouble," says Colleen Stratton, who spent thousands on medical treatments for her cat.
- 5. While most plans cover dogs and cats, some plans will cover exotic pets like lizards, birds, rabbits and other creatures. Be sure to do additional research if you're looking for coverage for those animals.
- Wellness plans that cover vaccines, grooming and other routine services will cost more per month, but they can help owners budget month-tomonth pet expenses.
- 7. Be sure to read the fine print so you know what a plan does and does not cover.

According to the "2021 State of the Industry Report" from the North American Pet Health Insurance Association (NAPHIA), the industry is growing annually by an average of 23.4 percent. Around 3.45 million pets were insured across the United States and Canada by the end of 2020.

After Colleen Stratton's cat Pyewackett cost her thousands of dollars—which she borrowed from her father—for a hyperthyroid treatment, she took out an insurance policy on Pyewackett as well as her second cat, Sho-Zen. "It was a godsend," says the resident of Glendale, Ca., "because Sho-Zen started having health problems and slowly deteriorated over a period of three years."

Her Pets Best Insurance plan, which cost $60 a month for two cats a decade ago, paid 80 percent of the bills after a $500 deductible. Now those cats are gone, and Stratton has two young healthy felines—and a premium that jumped from $87.32 to $127.68 per month this year for reasons she still does not understand. Stratton is weighing whether or not to keep the plan, increase the deductible, shop around or put that money into an emergency savings account. "I keep researching," she says. "But there is something comforting about knowing I have pet insurance, and I'm afraid to cancel it."

That sense of comfort is the reason many pet owners opt in.

"Pet insurance is a financial product, but it's also an emotional product," says Kristin Lynch, executive director of the NAPHIA. "You care a lot about your pet, and you want to be sure if something happens, you want to have the means to take care of them."

What to watch out for

In the U.S., the average premium for accident and illness coverage is $49.51 per month for dogs and $28.48 for cats, according to the NAPHIA. For accident coverage only, it's $18.17 and $11.13, respectively. Premiums fluctuate based on age, breed and where you live.

Plans from companies and organizations including Fetch, Embrace, Spot, Pumpkin, Lemonade, Pets Best and more can range from just injury coverage to comprehensive packages that offer perks like spay and neuter, immunization, dental and grooming coverage. Deductibles can start at $0 and go up to over $1,000. Many policies have copays; the most common is an 80/20 plan, meaning that after the deductible has been reached each year, you pay 20 percent of the remaining bills. Some plans have lifetime or annual per-condition limits on reimbursements, often capped at $5,000.

Most plans do not cover preexisting conditions, and many require users to pay up front for veterinary services, then submit paperwork to get reimbursed.

Pet food recalls

The FDA periodically updates their website with new pet food recalls. Don't take a chance with your pet's health. Please visit the FDA website to check the safety of your pet's food.

February 2022

Sometimes companies will reimburse for a lower amount than the actual bill for a particular procedure or treatment—and, in some cases, depending on the plan, those procedures or treatments may not be covered at all.

Lynch suggests talking to your vet before researching plans to understand what accidents or illnesses your pets are likely to face in their lifetimes and what treatment will cost. Rattlesnake bites may be common in your area, for example. Or your miniature poodle may be prone to Cushing's disease, and the vet can tell you what treating that is likely to cost at the time of diagnosis and on an ongoing basis.

While some insurance plans have provider networks that may or may not include your vet, most plans don't require that a vet accept the plan. The vet just needs to sign the form and provide medical records to the insurance company.

"I think most practices and veterinarians like it for clients because it removes finances as an obstacle for doing the right thing for a pet in critical or complicated situations," says South Carolina-based veterinarian Julie Buzby. "And as vets, many of us have it, too, for our own pets for these same reasons," including specialty care.

Stratton is motivated to keep paying premiums by a friend whose uninsured cat jumped out a window. "We're doing a GoFundMe now. The vet bills will total more than $10,000," she says. "It's a lot for people who are retired."

2023 calendar contest

If you have a favorite candid shot of your hound family members, submit them by no later than April 30. The pictures will be voted on in May. Once the votes have been tallied, we will provide them to the printer and the calendars should be ready by the annual fall event. We usually start taking orders over the summer.

We are also taking submissions for the name of the calendar. Huggable Hounds, A Year of Greytness, and Greyt Expectations have been just a few from the past. We will vote on the name at the picnic.

In addition, we have a Memory page for all those greyt friends who have crossed over the Rainbow Bridge. If you have a grey you would like to include, please send Angie their name and memorial date (and a picture if you like, just follow the submission guidelines below). This year, we will accept submissions for those who crossed from June 2021 through May 2022.

Need to know information

- Picture size is important. We can do some resizing of pictures; however, if the picture is too small or too large, it may be difficult to get a good quality resolution from the picture. Based on printing experts' recommendations, please set your camera to the HIGHEST resolution possible when snapping shots of your greyhounds.
- Pictures that are in landscape orientation are more likely to make the month photos (as opposed to the collages) in the calendar design. Don't worry—portrait photos can be submitted.
- 3. Candid, everyday shots are preferred. We avoid professional pictures for two reasons: 1. we don't want any problems with copyright or artistic infringement, and 2. we want an even playing field for the pooches. Below are some suggestions that have done well over the years.
 - Holidays: Any holiday (Christmas, Hanukkah, Easter, Valentine's, birthday, Cinco de Mayo, etc.) are great for the calendar. Any day is a holiday for a greyhound!
 - Seasonal: If you have a great shot of the beach, the snow, autumn leaves, throw it in.
 - Quirky shots: Cockroaching, weird expressions, funny ears, etc.

- Cuteness: So cute you can't stand it (big eyes, cuddling), the type of shots that made you adopt the dog(s) in the first place.
- 4. Picture formats: Electronic formats (.jpg or another similar format) are definitely preferred. However, we will gladly take print submissions IF
 - the quality of the photo is good (because we will have to scan in later)

AND

- the print is a copy, not an original.
 (In the case of print submissions, we will try to get them back to you.
 But to be safe, we would rather be responsible for a copy.)
- 5. Please limit your photo submissions to four (4) per household. If you have more and you would like Angie to choose, indicate it in the email.
- 6. If you submitted pictures last year and your picture was selected for the calendar, please do not resubmit that picture. If you submitted pictures that did not make the calendar, feel free to resubmit those pictures for voting.
- 7. Please provide your hound(s)' names and, if more than one in the picture, indicate which name goes with which hound. This is very important as the dog(s) names appear in the calendar with their pictures.
- Submissions may be sent to:
 Angie Blume
 109 Hunters Trace
 Frankfort, KY 40601
 Email: gagccalendars@yahoo.com

Please note: Angie typically checks this email box about once a week and will send out a confirmation email to each submitter once she has an opportunity to log in the pictures.

Dog runs, fosters & adoptions

Dog runs

We started 2022 with a dog run on Jan. 9. Brenda met our West Virginia dog source and picked up three new boys: Imark Sheriff, Superior Mickey, and Donau. Here's her report on the trip:

What a yucky day for a dog run, but once I saw the new boys, I was happy to have made the trip. Barb and Stephanie helped potty the boys before putting them in my car; they said they will have more retirees coming soon, which I was thrilled to hear! It was so sweet; Mickey kept looking out the back window for a long way. I wonder what he was thinking? All three boys laid down after a short while and napped until we got home. Gretchen picked up Sheriff, her foster boy, and took him home. Kathy took the other two boys to Dayton meeting Ryan and Lauren who are fostering Mickey, and Chrissy who is fostering Donau. When I got to I-71, the sprinkling stopped, and the roads were dry the rest of the way home.

Ron drove to Jackson on a snowy Jan.
23 to pick up two new W.V. girls: JS

Caseoftheruns (Trotter) and Baffler. Ron said there was occasional heavy snow, but nothing stuck to the ground. The Athens area got 12 inches last week and Ron said the mountains and sides of the road were still covered with snow, making for a pretty ride. The girls laid down and slept most of the way, with Trotter getting up occasionally to look out the window. When he got home, Brenda and the foster moms Gretchen and Jean were all on hand to get photos and help the girls move to the next stage of their new lives.

On Feb. 6, we were able to get three boys from the West Virginia kennel: Langley, Dutch McGruff, and Ketel One. Here's Brenda's report of the dog run:

It was a gorgeous drive looking at the frozen trees that had a shine to them while the ice was melting. Chrissy asked to ride along with me to pick up the three new retired racers. She wanted to experience a dog haul and she asked me lots of questions. We met the hauler in Jackson, and we let the boys pee before getting in my car which was a bit of a challenge on ice in the parking lot. We thanked Barb (W.V. trainer) again and loaded the boys up in my car. Langley was very stressed at first, I can only imagine what he was thinking, not being sure where he was heading. Dutch

Langley was heading from West Virginia to Ohio and his new life; he was adopted on Feb. 20.

McGruff laid down in the middle of the car and growled and barked most of the way home. He broke a leg while racing and I think he was worried the other two boys would step on him. There were times during the ride home that all three BIG boys were barking and growling. We think they were mostly talking to each other! I was thankful Chrissy was with me trying to correct them. I missed my exit while the barking was going on, adding another 14 miles to our trip. When we got back to my house, Jami, Stephanie, and Chrissy got the boys out of the car and they were all super-friendly and loved the attention we gave them while they pottied again. Honestly, all three are very sweet pups and will fit into most any family.

Ketel Run didn't want to miss a thing during the Feb. 6 dog run.

On a very cold Feb. 13, Brenda headed back to Jackson to get four new girls. Here's her report:

The Super Bowl didn't turn out like we had hoped on Sunday, but we won with getting the four retired females: Zebra Spot, Turbo Galaxy, Fly Quisha King, and JS Rockin Jewels. The girls got out of the hauler in Jackson, and we immediately put them into my warm car. It took about five minutes before all of them laid down wondering where they were going next. Our four foster families met me when I pulled into my driveway, lots of excitement for the girls exploring grass and a new environment. We got pictures and they were on their way to the next chapter of their lives. Kathy came to meet one of the dogs for an applicant in Dayton. A couple that I had interviewed came to meet the shy girl, Zebra and she was adopted on the 25th. Thanks to Gretchen, Jo and David, Andrea and Nate, and Meg and Tim who are the foster families for these newbies.

Feb. 20 was a gorgeous day for a five-hour round trip out Rt. 35 to meet up with our W.V. kennel contact. Ron drove and met our dog source picking up only one female: KL's Millie. The dog run was uneventful. He said Millie would get up every once in a while and cry, and then lay back down. He thought she was missing having another greyhound in the car. She's a beautiful girl and will likely find her new home soon.

Foster homes needed

Our biggest challenge in finding homes for retired racing greyhounds continues to be finding foster families to help with the dogs' transition into their forever homes. Would you like to be part of the process? We provide all food, medications, and guidance, and there is no expense to you. Can we add you to our list?

A foster dog's first few days

We so appreciate our foster families! Brenda always asks the foster parents a series of questions about new foster dogs so that we can assess which home would be best for them. The following is about a very shy girl named Zebra Spot. She was already lined up for a new couple who planned to call her Beatrice. Our very patient foster mom Gretchen sent this delightful report:

Zebra Spot, now called Beatrice, is a shy girl who will take some time to come out of her shell.

Beatrice is working hard at figuring out what in the world is going on. She is going to take time, patience and then more time and patience. Beatrice wants to make up to me, but she's on her own timeline. I'm trying to accept that, but it's hard because she's so stinkin' cute that I just want to cuddle her. I love her ... from a distance right now! She has been following me around, not too closely and always behind or beside me. She is not yet comfortable if I walk toward her. She either bolts off in the opposite direction or crouches down. It breaks my heart when that happens, so we're approaching each other very slowly and I'm giving her plenty of space as she adjusts to her new lifestyle. Despite herself, yesterday she gave me a few licks and her tail was wagging. Those moments were awesome!

She really likes to go upstairs and really, really does not like going down them! She's heavier than she looks. We're going to continue our slumber party for a few more days I'm afraid. She slept through the night like a champ and didn't stir once! It takes a long time to find the right spot to pee and she still hasn't pooped. I'm not sure who will feel better when that happens—her or me! The crusty snow hasn't been kind to her nail. It looks like the top part of the nail has come off and it's bleeding a bit now. She is one tough little girl and other than occasionally holding it up when we're outside, she is not licking it and it doesn't seem to be bothering her. She is confidently exploring her new surroundings and is the right amount of curious.

Beatrice is doing well with my dogs sometimes she stays by herself and other times she puts herself right in the middle of the action. Yesterday she joined Fifi and Chase in their nightly depiction of elephants running through my house and she did a few laps with them. She kept a close eye on Chase when he was playing with some toys and helped herself to one when she thought no one was watching! Argh—she's so cute! She is eating well and understands the concepts of treats. She prefers not to take them from my hand, but she is communicating when she wants them, and that seems like a good start.

We're going to focus on slow and steady progress and hope for a poo soon (preferably outside!).

Our sincere condolences go to Tara and Irene M. who had to say goodbye to collie Trooper on Jan. 9. Tara found Trooper through a collie rescue; their beloved boy had some medical issues early on, but Tara gave him a chance and he was a wonderful addition to their family.

Our sympathy goes to Shirley M. whose boy Papi died in early January. Shirley emailed Brenda that he had an aggressive oral tumor.

We were so sorry to hear that Cindy and Brad C. had to let their Terra go to the Bridge on Jan. 17. Terra started on a downward spiral in July 2020 when they lost another of their dogs. We send them our heartfelt condolences.

GAGC officers and directors send their sincere sympathy to Brenda and Ron P. who said goodbye to 13-year-old Crissy on Jan. 15. They had Crissy for nine years and recently she had been fighting age related issues. Brenda shared that Crissy had always been their pack leader until several months ago when she somehow knew to pass the torch to Betsy. We are so sorry for their loss.

We send our condolences to Tarah and Matt C. whose boy Mac Superstar crossed the Rainbow Bridge on Jan. 31 as a result of severe breathing issues. Mac's family had been trying to get to the bottom of his breathing problems for quite some time with no success. Tarah said that after reviewing the episode and doing research, it was likely laryngeal paralysis.

We were so sorry to hear that long time member Jami B. lost her boy Romeo on Feb. 1. He suddenly stopped eating and made it clear to her that it was his time to go. We send Jami our heartfelt sympathy.

We send our condolences to Chris and Tom P. who had to say goodbye to their corgi/Jack Russell mix Mazie on Feb. 2. Mazie had been diagnosed with cancer in her nasal area about a year ago and she finally lost her battle.

Our heartfelt sympathy goes to Joyce and her daughter Mary S. who is the GAGC treasurer. They had to saying goodbye to Joyce's Shar-pei mix Milton on Feb. 21. He had a cancerous mass on his spleen as well as other significant health issues, so they decided Milton had been through enough and they let him go.

Our condolences go to Ann N. who posted on Facebook that she said goodbye to Remy on Feb. 22. Her boy had Intervertebral Disc Disease (IVDD), which is a gradual, age-related, degenerative process that affects the spinal cord of the dog. We're sorry for her loss.

There is a bridge connecting Heaven and Earth.

It is called the Rainbow Bridge because of all its beautiful colors.

Just this side of the Rainbow Bridge there is a land of meadows, hills and valleys with lush green grass.

When a beloved pet dies, the pet goes to this place.

There is always food and water and warm spring weather.

The old and frail animals are young again.

Those who were sick, hurt or in pain are made whole again.

There is only one thing missing ...

they are not with their special person who loved them so much on earth.

So each day they run and play until the day comes when one suddenly stops playing and looks up!

The nose twitches! The ears are up!

The eyes are staring and this one runs from the group!
You have been seen, and when you and your special friend meet, you take him in your arms and hug him.

He licks and kisses your face again and again — and you look once more into the eyes of your best friend and trusting pet.

Then you cross the Rainbow Bridge together never again to be apart.

Recruit

Born June 1, 2009, adopted by us Feb. 20, 2021, died Nov. 20, 2021

Cruit (short for Recruit) joined our lives in February 2021 as an old boy. He was 11-and-a-half and in need of a new home. We had 10-year-old Barney, who needed a greyhound companion.

Cruit came to us very subdued. He shied away from our hands and wouldn't take treats we tried to give him. He was even afraid of treats we dropped on the floor for him.

At first, he chose to spend his time in another room, sleeping alone. Cruit was silent. He never barked, whined, or growled. He was very well behaved, but he didn't seem relaxed or playful.

One day, we rooed in our family room. We knew Barney wasn't much of a rooer, but we gave it a try. Cruit came dashing in from the living room, rooing at full volume, tail going like a propeller. It was so heartwarming. We rooed with him many more times over the months, with Barney sometimes joining in. Cruit loved it. He and Barney became great friends, sleeping close together in the sunshine.

Cruit and Barney were practically twins. Barney was a little bigger, and Cruit had more age in his face. Cruit had bigger spots. From a distance, they were almost indistinguishable.

We lost Barney in September and found that Cruit turned to us for companionship. He even learned to play games with treats dropped on the floor (our version of hide-n-seek).

By the end of his life, Cruit was taking treats from us, rolling around for belly pets, snuggling with us, and getting up to greet us when we came home from somewhere. He was a charmer, and we were honored to give him a chance to blossom. We loved him so.

Trooper

This gloomy day was merely a reflection of my emotions as I had to say good-bye to my beloved Trooper, a rough-coated sable collie (Lassie). Trooper tried three times to find his forever home and family. Three times was the charm for him. Trooper and I met at a vet's office when he was brought in by a collie rescue organization. It was love at first sight. His sweet attentive disposition stole my heart, and in a few days, he was home to stay. A case of undiagnosed Canine Lupus caused his nose to slightly deteriorate, and left Trooper with an unusual look in the beginning, but with tender loving care and the correct meds his nose improved. Who cared anyway? Not me.

Trooper lived with me, a bloodhound, a wire-haired dachshund, and now a greyhound. He was the fun police. When the others got rowdy outside, Trooper took it upon himself to herd them together into a quieter, more sedate group. He remained that fun-loving collie until the end. Today, Jan. 9, he just couldn't anymore; old age, arthritis and finally other internal ailments forced me to make the necessary but difficult decision.

Trooper will still live with me, but in my heart. Rest well, dear friend. The herd and I miss you.

Crissy

Our sweet girl was a huge part of our family for almost nine years. She was born Dec. 24, 2008, so Ron named her Crissy because she was born on Christmas Eve. She enjoyed our travels to Greyhounds in Gettysburg and Mountain Hounds, showing off her beauty and representing the breed to its fullest. We LOVED her ears! She had the best eye contact of any Pennix greyhound. At our events and Meet & Greets, she would walk in demanding attention and expecting pets from everyone. We could never get her on our couches, but she loved her morning ear rubs and massages by Ron.

In November, she didn't come to him every morning, so we knew she was slowing down. She tried to run in the yard with the younger dogs and when that stopped, we knew the end was near. The greyhound harness (I called it the suitcase harness) helped her with potty breaks and getting up and down out of the dog beds. I know she is still with us keeping our pack comforted and reminding Harley to behave. I know one day we'll meet again!

Support GAGC!

How can YOU support GAGC?

GAGC can always use your support. Here's how you can help!

Go Krogering!

Go Krogering! Do you shop at Kroger? The Kroger Reward program is one of GAGC's most reliable fundraisers. Our rewards are based on your use of your Kroger Plus card. We receive a $200 donation from Kroger each time our group achieves $5,000 in total purchases. We use these donations primarily to cover vetting expenses for new or rehomed greyhounds. Be sure to link your Kroger Plus card to GAGC and always use it at check-out. Thanks to all of you who are active in using your rewards cards. We typically earn between $1,000 and $1,500 each quarter from this Kroger reward program. Our latest reward was $1,217.51. Kroger donated a grand total of $4,884.32 to GAGC in 2021. Please take a moment to link your Plus card to GAGC as shown below. Thanks!

Sweet Landry is celebrating her third anniversary with Kay and Doug by being thoroughly pampered and loved.

Kroger Reward Program

Please enroll in the Kroger Community Rewards Program. Our Code Number is #EP079. Ask your family and friends to register GAGC as their favorite charity. It is easy money for our hounds and doesn't affect your fuel points! www.krogercommunityrewards.com

Foster Dog Sponsors

Our program encouraging GAGC members to sponsor one of our foster dogs for $20 has been very successful. The sponsorship fees go toward the cost of food and monthly medications for these greyhounds. The sponsors have their names on the website on the listing for the dog, plus we'll include it here. This is a nice way to support our foster program without actually bringing a grey into your home. Thanks to all of you! Our latest sponsors are:

Marianne, James, Connie and Nati:

Rushing Legend, JS Fine Toon, Ketel One, Dutch McGruff

Mel, Jon, Odin, Lilly, and Ace: SNL Vixen, Baffler

Christa, Kim, Leo, Annabelle, Shadow and Marley: Kells Finale, Langley

Thanks for Your Support!

One of the reasons GAGC has experienced so much success is due to the support we receive from our families and friends. Month after month, you help us out in many ways, and we so appreciate all of our donors. Thank you!

Pet Sitters

Do you need a pet sitter for your greys while you're out of town? We keep a list of potential pet sitters but we are always looking for more willing folks, both for the Dayton and the Cincinnati areas. Please let Brenda or Kathy know if you're interested in being added to the list, or if you'd like to see who might be available in your area to pet sit your greyhounds.
